Bomb Kills
Diplomat In Paris

PARIS (AP) — A bomb rocked the Foreign Ministry Monday and a member of Parliament was the victim of a daylight kidnapping in an eruption of lawlessness and violence that stunned the French capital. One man was killed in the blast.

There was immediate speculation that both acts were the work of the right-wing Secret Army Organization, the extremist underground sworn to keep Algeria French at all costs.

The explosion blasted hundreds of windows in the world-famous Quai D'Orsay and injured more than a dozen persons, three seriously. Most of the other injured were cut by flying glass.

House To Study
Postal Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House tackles its first legislative task of 1962 Tuesday, a bill to increase postal rates. Two factors give added significance to the action:

—It is the first test of the new Democratic House leadership, headed by Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts.

—The postal increase is a key-stone of President Kennedy's precariously balanced budget for fiscal 1963. As presented to Congress last week, the $400-million-odd surplus in Kennedy's $32.5-billion budget includes revenue from postal increases. Without an increase, the budget surplus is wiped out at a stroke.

'Spy' Jet Still Being Checked

ROME (AP) — Italy said Monday there were indications that a Soviet-built jet plane from Communist Bulgaria was on an aerial spying mission when it crashed in this country Saturday.

A statement by the Italian Defense Ministry said further investigation would be conducted to "establish whether the already existing indications of a true and proper case of aerial espionage can be further substantiated."

The statement said investigators were examining aerial photographic apparatus and other equipment aboard the plane that crash-landed near a secret missile base in southern Italy, after making two passes over the base.

The Bulgarian pilot, Lt. Miluse Sokolov Kirov, probably will be brought to trial in Italy, a spokesman said.

Thurmond Hits
'Muzzle' Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., fired a political salvo at President Kennedy Monday on the eve of senatorial hearings into charges the administration has gagged military officials.

Thurmond's complaints that Kennedy's Pentagon lieutenants muzzle military men who want to speak out strongly against communism will be aired publicly before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee beginning Tuesday.

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, former chief of naval operations, was called by Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., as the first of a number of witnesses.

Budget Revenue
Is Questioned

HARRISBURG (AP) — Estimates of revenue to balance Gov. Lawrence's $1 billion general fund budget for 1962-63, assume the economy will level off next year, an administration official said Monday.

The total estimated revenue for the fiscal year, added Dr. David H. Kurtzman, secretary of administration, are based on the consensus of economists around the nation on the economic growth in the 12-month period.

The Revenue Department did not go into estimates, however, when it appeared before the joint House and Senate Appropriations Committees to discuss its portion of the general fund budget.

Secretary Charles M. Dougherty expressed willingness, however, to go into that subject with the legislators at a special session later.

Attorney Killed
In Plane Crash

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Meadville attorney Kenneth Rice, 49, solicitor of Crawford County and West Mead Twp., was killed Monday in the crash of a private plane in an attempted landing at the Port Erie Airport, police said. Two others were injured.

The plane's pilot, Roger Councilman, about 42, of Cochranton near Meadville, was listed in serious condition at Hamot Hospital.

The other passenger in the plane, Robert Donegan, 43, of Conneaut Lake, suffered a back injury and was in fair condition at St. Vincent's Hospital. He is a vice president of the Niagara Therapy Manufacturing Corp. of Adamsville, Pa.

Man-In-Orbit Shot Is Held Up By Equipment

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Gremilins in the oxygen system designed to feed astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. the breath of life forced a new postponement Monday of his round-the-world space flight. It's off until Saturday, at the earliest.

If the fault had gone uncorrected, officials said, there was a possibility that oxygen would be used up at an excessive rate. As a matter of fact, there was talk that the shot might not take place until Tuesday, Jan. 30, or even later.

He was reported to have said tersely:

"The additional time will only increase our sharpness."

Earlier in the day, sources close to NASA indicated the trouble might have been due to the invasion of the delicate oxygen life-line by tiny specks of dust, perhaps preventing a valve from closing.

Dust Discovered

However, officials said later that on closer examination no evidence of dust was discovered. They did not say exactly what the trouble was, merely announcing that a couple of vital parts were being replaced and that "tests of the system continued."

The space cabin is filled with oxygen at a pressure similar to that on earth—much the way that passenger cabins on jet airliners are pressurized.

Astronaut Glenn will wear a space suit which will provide him both with oxygen to breathe as well as a small, close-to-the-skin atmosphere and pressure comparable with that on earth.

Might Lose Oxygen

Should the space craft cabin be punctured in some emergency, Glenn would normally be able to rely on the smaller atmosphere within his space suit. However the fault in the oxygen system would have led to a possibility that too much oxygen would be used and lost.

Meantime NASA officials are still trying to prepare a rocket that will be aimed at the moon late this week, perhaps Friday. And the Air Force still hoped it could meet its Wednesday target date for launching five earth satellites with one rocket.

The postponement of Glenn's bout with the cosmos caused a stir here.

Maps Is Sought In Death
Of Wife And Daughter

SOUGHT BY POLICE — Edward Maps, 38, of 510 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, is being sought by state and local police for questioning in connection with the deaths of his wife, Christine, 21, and daughter, four months old. Child died of smoke inhalation in fire at their home, while Mrs. Maps died yesterday in Monroe County General Hospital of a fractured skull and cerebral hemorrhage.

Kennedy Enlarges On Plan For Tax Powers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy predicted Monday a "giant stride" toward a fully employed American economy in 1962, and called for defense-in-depth against future recessions.

If proper steps are taken, he said in his annual economic report sent to Congress, the nation need not be doomed to an "alternation of lean years and fat."

"The business cycles do not have the inevitability of the calendar," he asserted.

For the first time, Kennedy spelled out details of his controversial proposal for standby power to cut individual income taxes if the economy begins to slide.

This, he figured, could increase purchasing power as much as $10 billion if the cut remained in effect a year. The reduction for taxpayers at the bottom of the economic pyramid would be much greater, percentage-wise, than for those in the high brackets.

He also asked standby authority to start, or speed up, $2 billion of public works and other pump-priming activities in case recession threatened. And, among many other recommendations, he urged broadening of the jobless pay system and extension of the benefit periods.

Since World War II, Kennedy said, the country has had four recessions and when he took office last January was in the grip of the latest one.

"The down trend was reversed," he said, and the gross national product — the total of all goods and services produced grew from an annual rate of $501 billion in the first quarter of 1961 to a record annual rate of $542 billion in the last quarter.

Unemployment dropped from 6.8 to 6.1 per cent of the labor force, he added, but was "still far too high."

'A Giant Stride'

For 1961 as a whole, he said, the gross national product (gnp) was $521 billion, and he predicted $571 billion in 1962—a "giant stride."

Kennedy's plan for authority to cut income taxes has met a cold reception in a Congress jealous of purse strings and taxing power. But the President went to bat strongly for it, saying it could be "a powerful safeguard against recession."

He said he was not asking Congress to delegate its taxing power but only to authorize a temporary, emergency step—subject to the check rein of congressional

Autopsy Shows Mrs. Maps
Died From Skull Fracture

A STROUDSBURG artist-sculptor, Edward Howard Maps, 38, is being sought by police in connection with deaths of his wife and four-month-old daughter after a fire at their home Sunday night.

An all-points wanted for murder bulletin was issued by State Police Monday, after an autopsy on the wife, Mrs. Christine Wolbach Maps, 21, revealed that she died early Monday morning of a fractured skull and cerebral hemorrhage.

The blow that killed the woman was described by Dr. Harvey Pullen, who performed the autopsy at Monroe County General Hospital, as "coming from a blunt instrument that had an impact area of four square inches."

According to Dr. Pullen, the damage to the skull was what would be expected if a person crashed into a pole in a car traveling 50 miles per hour.

Dies From Smoke

Monroe County Coroner John Foelker, who was present at the autopsy, said the baby Julia Louise died of smoke inhalation. There were no signs that the baby who was dead on arrival at the hospital, had been struck.

Mrs. Maps and the baby were discovered in the family's smoke-filled home at 510 Sarah Street Sunday night by the Stroudsburg Fire Department.

The fire department answered an alarm turned in by Mrs. Mae G. Young, a neighbor of the Maps at 10:48 Sunday night.

Mrs. Maps was found on the kitchen floor by Kenneth Charles Werkheiser of 22 N. 6th Street, a member of the Stroudsburg company.

Werkheiser told Sgt. Unger that when he entered the building he smelled gas and found that the gas jets on stove had been turned on and the oven was set at 450 degrees.

"Because Werkheiser smelled the gas," said Unger, "I don't believe that the stove had been lighted."

Unger, Monroe District Attorney James Marsh and Chief Jack Tretheway of the Stroudsburg Police searched the building for a possible murder weapon but failed to find one.

Shortly after noon Monday Tretheway ordered the building padlocked and the windows boarded up.

Bulletin Out

The all-points bulletin was directed especially to Passaic, N.J., Maps' boyhood home. The bulletin lists Maps as "5-5", 160 pounds, gray-black curly hair, wearing blue dungarees a finger-tip coat and sandals.

Maps and his wife were married last summer and had lived at the Sarah street address for only a few months. They previously lived at 521 Thomas and lived for a period with the wife's mother and father, at 507 Thomas St.

Mrs. Wolbach lives in a Main Street apartment and Wolbach until Monday was in Florida recuperating from a heart attack.

Wolbach flew to Stroudsburg Monday and met with Marsh and Tretheway for about an hour.

Stroudsburg police have issued an all points arson bulletin on Maps, but Marsh says "we want him in connection with the murders."

Thick Smoke

The smoke in the two-story frame house was so thick that Werkheiser had to crawl on his hands and knees after entering the house from the kitchen door.

"I touched her not more than three minutes after assistant chief Millard Marsh kicked in the rear door," said Werkheiser, "but at first I thought it was one of the sculptures that was strewn around the place."

Werkheiser carried Mrs. Maps to the rear porch where oxygen was administered. She was taken to Monroe General Hospital, where she died at 2:40 a.m. Monday.

The baby was found some 15 minutes after the discovery of Mrs. Maps. The infant was lying nude on a wicker bench about 15 feet from where Werkheiser found Mrs. Maps.

Baby Found

The baby was discovered by three firemen, Harold Carlton, Bill Miller and Tom Sommers. Carlton carried the baby out and it was taken to Monroe County General by East Stroudsburg police. However, it was dead on arrival at the hospital.

At first, fireman believed that Maps was in the building but four searches on hands and knees failed to find him.

State Police Fire Marshall, Sgt. Donald Unger from Hazleton spent more than an hour Monday morning searching the building for clues to the origin of the fire.

Fires Started

According to Unger, six or seven small fires were started in the attic, two more on the first floor and a large one in the basement. There were no fires on the second floor.

The FBI also has a fugitive warrant for Maps, who was last seen at 9:05 p.m. Sunday.

The Maps visited at a neighbor's home, about a block and half away Sunday evening and left shortly after nine, when Maps, remarked, "It's time for the baby to go to sleep."

Marsh feels that the fires were started between 9:10 and 10 p.m.

"The fire department said the fire started some 40 minutes before they arrived," says Marsh, "so it would have been too hot for Maps to be in there after 10."

Fires In Attic

The biggest portion of the fires were started in the attic but apparently the door from the second floor hall to attic was closed and the fire burnt itself out. The stairway and attic side of the door were burnt but there was no fire damage to the second floor.

Unger said the fires were started from scraps of paper, curtain and dress material and rags.

Shirer Predicts No War In Berlin

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An author predicted yesterday the Berlin crisis will not produce a war between Russia and the Western powers.

William L. Shirer, author of "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich," based his prediction on the belief Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is not willing to risk nuclear war over East Germany.

"Khrushchev knows that, while nuclear war would be the end of the West, it also would be the end of Russia, too," Shirer said.

Shirer made the remarks in an interview before addressing the United Jewish Federation.

County Park Commission Created

MONROE County Commissioners passed a resolution at their meeting yesterday creating the Monroe County Park Commission.

Elected to the commission were Marshall Reese, one year term; Arthur Kitzman, two-year term; Herbert Altomose, three-year term; Henry Hoffman, four-year term, and Russell J. Mervine, five-year term.

In other business the commissioners met with Norman Dietrich, soil conservationist, who presented the boundary lines of the Upper Brodheadville Creek Water Shed to Edward Hess, county surveyor.

There are three properties involved in the boundary issue. They are Buck Hill Falls, Skytop and land owned by the Annunziata family.

Hess will survey the property and stake it so the owners can see the land involved in the watershed.

Chess Club Elects Officers

HAROLD N. James was elected president of the Stroudsburg Chess Club during a reorganization meeting held at the Italian-American Club, Stroudsburg.

Other officers elected are Earl Weiss, secretary and Louis Mondelle, treasurer.

The presidency had been vacant since the death last year of club founder John M. Price.

After the election of officers, the delegate members from the Mount Pocono area battled the Stroudsburg members. The delegation was led by George Sopko and Jacob Conley.

James and Sopko were matched in five games with the former winning three of the contests. Sopko then challenged Earl Weiss with each man winning a game.

Conley beat William P. Deering in three games. Deering and Mondelle split even in two games.

Skeleton Identified As Ex-Area Worker

A SKELETON found in a heavily-wooded area near Canadensis last Oct. 31 was identified yesterday as Lambert George Krittkson, 39, of 1022 Pine St., Philadelphia, who had been employed by an area resort as a chef's helper.

Daniel G. Warner, then Monroe County coroner, said he will list the death as due to "conditions other than normal, possibly exposure to the elements."

Warner said an examination of the body by Dr. M. J. Leitner, Monroe County General Hospital pathologist, and Dr. Wilton Marion Krogman, anthropologist at the University of Pennsylvania medical school, failed to reveal the cause of death.

The examinations showed no evidence that Krittkson had been shot, stabbed or beaten, Warner said. The bones were tested for arsenic poisoning, but no traces were found.

Warner had high praise for Harry L. Campbell, Barrett Township police chief, and Cpl. Emil Weber of the Mt. Pocono State Police barracks, who checked out the numerous leads to the man's identity.

Found Ring

They were also responsible for the finding of a ring bearing the initials L.G.K. several days after the skeleton was found.

Warner said Campbell and Weber checked the records of various resorts after Dr. Krogman estimated that Krittkson had been dead between a year and six months and two years when the skeleton was found.

Krogman's examination also established that the skeleton was that of a white male, about 39 years old, of Greek descent. It showed that he was about five feet eight inches tall, of muscular build with fair complexion, light brown hair and possible blue or blue-green eyes.

An examination of the skull also revealed that the person suffered from severe sinus trouble.

All of these points checked out with information received from Krittkson's wife, Ruth Alice; his brother, George Krittkson of Brooklawn, N.J., and Edward Joseph Barron, who accompanied Krittkson here and was employed by another area resort.

Krittkson's wife identified the ring as his and also identified clothing found at the scene as her husband's. His brother said he last saw Krittkson in December, 1959, just before he came to the Poconos. His wife told investigators he was due to return home on Dec. 20 of that year, but failed to appear. He had not been heard from since that time.

Warner said Campbell's and Weber's investigation showed that Krittkson left the resort where he was employed on or about Dec. 7, 1959, leaving his clothing and an uncashed pay check.

Warner said the initial contact leading to the identification was Benjamin O'Quinn, who lives next door to Krittkson's wife and with whom Krittkson had been in contact.

Krittkson, a navy veteran of World War II, had worked as a stevedore on the Philadelphia water front and as a boiler maker and rigger before coming to this area, Warner said.

District's Vets Endorse 3 Programs

DISTRICT 20 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Sunday, endorsed three programs during its meetings in the Palmerton VFW Home. The organization, headed by Commander Peter Szivos, Northampton, pledged its full support toward the creation of two additional National Cemeteries in Pennsylvania; toward providing full consideration for military personnel and their families overseas and toward the elimination of the planned cutbacks in the National Guard and Reserve forces of the United States.

At the same time, the organization filed a strong protest against the future sale of any arms or ammunition to any of the Red-dominated countries, pointing expressly to the recently approved sale of six jets by the British to Red China.

Letters concerning each of the above actions will be forwarded to Rep. Francis E. Walter and U. S. Sens. Hugh Scott and Joseph Clark.

The district commander named Steve Goldich, Palmerton, a past district commander, to head the committee planning the annual Past Commanders' Past Presidents' dinner to be held this summer. His committee includes Curtis Gerhard, Lehigh; Harrison M. Henrity, Weatherly; Franklin E. Weller, Robert Hatchman and George Straka, Stroudsburg; Frank J. Lang, Northampton; Donald Edelman, Nazareth, and Robert Rabe, Palmerton. The auxiliary named Mrs. Martha Savarool, Stroudsburg; Mrs. Mildred Dean, Easton, district president; Mrs. Madeline Moyer, Bethlehem, and Mrs. Irene Ayers, Martins Creek, as their committee representatives.

The next district meeting will be held March 18 in Easton.

Bangor Budget Approved

BANGOR—A budget of $162,468.04 was tentatively approved at a special meeting of Bangor Borough Council last night.

It showed an increase of approximately $1,000 in expenditures over last year's budget. There will be no increase in taxes.

Taxes will continue with a seven-mill levy on real estate, a 20-mill occupational tax, a one percent wage tax and a $5 per capita levy.

Police salaries will be increased $100 each under the new budget and a five-cent an hour hike was approved for special police, who are paid on an hourly basis.

Sanitation and street employees of the borough will also receive a five cents an hour increase, plus one week's paid vacation and six paid holidays. Increases of $100 in salary were granted to the Bangor park manager, road supervisor, borough secretary and a $50 increase to the borough auditor was approved.

No increase in salary was provided for the mayor or the borough treasurer. A $100 expense account was established for the mayor's office.

Instructor In Bangor Resigns

BANGOR—The resignation of Dr. Anson Hamm, junior high school science instructor, was accepted at a special meeting of the Bangor Area Joint School Committee last night.

The resignation, due to ill health, will be effective Jan. 31. Due to accumulated sick leave, Dr. Hamm will continue to be paid until March 14.

The board hired four custodians for the new senior high school building at $3,400 a year. They are Donald Creighton, Lower Mt. Bethel Twp.; George Strauss, Washington Twp.; Lester Rutt, Portland, and Anthony Priori, Bangor.

The board also made plans to hire a school maid at approximately $1,700 yearly for the new building.

The board approved purchase of three lamps for the new family living center of the senior high school and authorized the purchase of a teachers' conference desk at a cost of $50.

The board authorized transfer of the bus contract from Mrs. Gladys Strunk to James Talmeri, affecting transportation of Lower Mt. Bethel pupils.

Both Mrs. Maps and the baby had second and third degree burns but Dr. Pullen estimated that less than 10 per cent of their bodies were burned.

Mrs. Maps Bruised
Mrs. Maps right hand was severely bruised and Dr. Pullen theorized that she may have been trying to ward off blows.

When firemen failed to find Maps in the house, police searched the area and questioned neighbors. Two foreign cars, both registered in Maps' name were found in the garage at the rear of the house.

Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and State Police searched a major portion of the Pocono area Sunday night and until dawn Monday.

Some 19 leads were turned up by mid-Monday, many from people who knew Maps and had an idea where he might be hiding.

The bodies were released to the Dunkelberger and Westbrook funeral home. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Community Chest Faces Crisis '61 Drive Falls Short $10,159

By BOBBY WESTBROOK
THE BIGGEST blow in the history of the Monroe County Community Chest and two big boosts left the board of directors a little groggy following last night's meeting at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The blow: The 1962 Fund Campaign is $10,159.34 short of its quota and at the meeting of Feb. 19, the board will have to decide how, when and where the allotment of funds promised to the member agencies must be cut.

The boosts: Family Service in Monroe County moved a step nearer reality with a revised budget incorporating that service submitted by the Children's Aid Society of Monroe County; and the dream of a community wide all-inclusive campaign for funds seemed nearer with the formal application of the Monroe County Chapter of the American Red Cross for membership in the Chest.

Both proposals were referred to the Social Planning Committee of which Jesse Pierson is chairman for study and recommendations at the next board meeting.

Maxwell Cohen, president of the Chest, presided at the meeting which opened on the grim note of the deficit. Daniel Warner, fund campaign chairman, expressed his disappointment and sense of failure.

"The biggest deficit we have ever suffered can't be blamed on recession or lack of proper coverage nor lack of trying. There is no reason we should not have raised the money. The question now is what is to be done so that we can raise the money the agencies are depending upon us for," Warner said, suggesting a campaign committee of board members to map out campaign policy.

Cohen, denying that Warner or the campaign itself needed any apology, pointed out that they had raised $79,737.66 and that factors influencing the Campaign have been building up for several years.

"The Chest is either too large or too small," Cohen said, pointing out some of the factors which influenced the campaign: public attitude developing over a period of years for agencies which lack the dramatic impact of separate drives, the increasing budgets of member agencies, and a major capital funds campaign.

Complicating the future is the opportunity for expanding services and request of a non-member agency to come in, which will raise the amount necessary to be raised, he added.

Ethel West, executive secretary, suggested an evaluation of the whole Community Chest program, polling the community with such questions as:

Do they want the Chest? Does it serve its purpose? Would the community prefer to have each agency run its own campaign?

Should the Chest be changed into a United Fund.

"We lost $4,000 when Worthington Mower left," she said, "but it's going to be awfully hard to explain to the agencies about the rest of the $10,000 we didn't raise," she said.

Explains Proposal

Cohen explained the CAS proposal to add Family Service, which involves a greater participation of the County Commissioners in the child welfare services with the Community Chest funds allocated in larger proportion to the family service in what one board member, Mrs. Leister, called "the biggest bargain we could get."

In other action, Cohen announced that Mrs. Edward C. Knob was leaving the community, hailing her service on the Chest since 1943. He also read a letter of resignation from Elmer J. Daniels, accepted by the board with regret.

The annual meeting was set for Feb. 26.

Fire Damages Barrett Shack

BARRETT — An overheated chimney caused about $100 damage to a shack used by State Highways Dept. crews on Canadensis Hill, Route 390, about 7:40 p.m. yesterday. Barrett Township Volunteer Fire Dept. extinguished the blaze. Asst. Chief William Krummel estimated the damage.

LIVING ROOM DAMAGED EXTENSIVELY — The living room of home where four-month-old Julia Maps died in a fire late Sunday night. The child was found in a small room off this room. House is on Sarah St., Stroudsburg. Mrs. Edward Maps, the child's mother, later died at Monroe General Hospital. Her husband, an artist is being sought by police in connection with the deaths. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

FRONT ROOM — Fire on the first floor of the Maps home on Sarah St. was centered in this room. The room contained many paintings of the artist, Eddie Maps, and several of his book collections. Maps is the object of a police hunt after charges of arson and murder were filed by Stroudsburg Police. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Food For Thought

According to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Americans have more money than they had a year ago. Jobs pay more—and there are more jobs.

After the country pulls out of a so-called "recession," as it did in 1961, we expect prosperity. But according to the national Chamber of Commerce, what we do not expect is continued high unemployment.

Yet seasonably adjusted unemployment rates continue to run close to the level of a year ago; about six per cent of Americans who can work and want to work cannot find work.

Why is this? According to the national Chamber again, acts by the federal government may account for most of the recent unemployment above normal.

The minimum wage increase last September barred from jobs workers who could not find employers willing to pay them the higher rates.

Labor laws have been administered so as to make it troublesome, onerous and costly to employ human beings.

Also the Secretary of Labor has held open the door for union wage settlements that price workers out of jobs.

The Administration has set a four per cent unemployment rate as its goal. But such policies as the government has followed so far, may prevent us from reaching the goal nationally.

Government deeds and misdeeds may be at the heart of needless hardship for millions of people. Government officials often fail to remember that when they push employment costs up they help to push people out of jobs too.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Clearing The Shelter Picture

Fallout shelters are a topic on which there is much talk about all too little solid information.

Abundant argument is heard on such issues as how big a shelter effort we should make, what the respective public and private participation should be, what constitutes a satisfactory shelter.

On this latter count, the Federal Trade Commission is moving in to set what it hopes will be clear guide lines for both the purchasers and sellers of shelters.

In the absence of well-fixed standards, confusion has reigned. Since human safety is involved, the FTC is anxious to eliminate as quickly as possible any prospect that merchandisers might accidentally or otherwise mislead.

The FTC's 15-point guide makes plain that no known type of shelter affords absolute, total protection against either fallout or blast.

To classify as a fallout shelter, a structure must assure that the occupants will receive 100 times less radiation than an unprotected person.

To qualify as "blast resistant," a shelter must be able to withstand the pressures which would result from a 10-megaton bomb at a distance of about two and a half miles—or from a 100-megaton explosion at no less than five miles.

Requirements for "limited blast resistant" shelters naturally are somewhat less stringent, since they would be effective only at distances of eight and a half miles from a 10-megaton burst, 18 miles from a 100-megaton blast.

The FTC wants prospective shelter buyers to be on constant alert for specific proof that shelters fit unmistakably into one or another of these categories. They have given notice of makers and sellers to provide such proof.

The commission also wants clarity on another vital point. We consumers are accustomed to hearing the term "family size" applied to many articles of our daily living. But as applied to a fallout shelter, this needs to be highly explicit.

Minimum government standards exist covering the floor space, air space and volume of fresh air needed for each person occupying a shelter. The FTC insists that standards be met.

The agencies 15 rules, properly enforced, should free the shelter customer's mind from any vagueness as to what a shelter is supposed to do, what it should cost for installation, maintenance and repair, what its capacity is.

Not the least aspect of this extremely useful service is the FTC's warning that the whole matter of shelters be handled soberly yet without playing upon the public's understandable fears of nuclear horror.

The Pennsylvania Story

Redistricting Session Now On

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — As Pennsylvania's lawmakers rally round their breakfast table during this week's special legislative session to work up a congressional redistricting program for the Keystone State, they do so with quite a twaddle of history behind them.

Judging by the clamor, commotion and din of the pan rattling that has preceded this week's gathering of the legislative clan in this first special session since 1944, it might well be assumed by many a Keystone State street walker that this is the first time Pennsylvania ever had to reapportion its congressional districts.

It should be noted for the sake of posterity perhaps—if not for the benefit of some of the current lawmakers who might feel inclined to assume the martyr posture—that reapportionment of Pennsylvania's congressional districts is nothing new; that in fact by circumstance (not intent)

It has been a rigid and regular event since the days of Governor Thomas Mifflin!

(For the benefit of those who might not recall the days of Governor Thomas Mifflin—he was governor from 1790 to 1799, in fact he was the first governor Pennsylvania ever had—under a State Constitution. And as might be expected (even in those days) he was a "big city" governor—from Philadelphia. As for his political affiliation—alas and alack for Democrats and Republicans who never have been able to claim the "first governor"—Thom is listed in the official record book under party affiliation as "no party"!) It's the only time such a chap ever became chief executive.)

After that extended departure we got lost, Oh yes, back to the fact that congressional reapportionment (for Pennsylvania) is nothing new.

The point to bear in mind is that congressional reapportionment, or the need thereof, is determined by the results of the decennial census every ten years—that is, if Pennsylvania's population "pace" exceeds, lags or remains even with the pace of the nation as a whole and sister states, the number of congressmen permitted the Keystone State fluctuates similarly.

Pennsylvania in this respect has proven to be a most unstable state, as the record clearly shows, for ever since 1790 Pennsylvania's Legislature has had to run around every ten years and change its congressional representation.

In other words, every blasted ten years since 1790 Pennsylvania has had to do just what it is doing this week.

The whole thing started out back in Governor Mifflin's day quite comfortably. In the entire U.S. House of Representatives there were only 65 congressmen—of which Pennsylvania had eight.

Many, many Indians have gone over the hill—or wherever they go—since those days however and the paleface has multiplied like rabbits, so much so in fact that by 1910 this congressional delegation thing was really booming.

In fact that year it reached its pinnacle of 36 congressmen—from 1790 to that year showing a steady growth in palefaces. Pennsylvania's population increase held its own until the 1930 census when the congressional decline started.

In 1930 Pennsylvania had to reapportion down to 34 congressmen, in 1940 down to 33, in 1950 down to 30, and now—again alas—the 1960 census has decreed a further drop to 27 congressional districts.

The elimination of the three districts is the reason for the special session this week, and should the congressional districts not be reapportioned, all the State's congressmen would be elected at large rather than by their own local district.

No—this week's legislative venture into the field of congressional reapportionment for Pennsylvania is nothing new or anything approaching a "first", although it may seem somewhat like that from the commotion and wailing that has taken place in recent months.

In fact—since 1790—it has been a ten-year routine!

Off The Record

Ted Cahn, Stroudsburg businessman, now knows what fame does to a individual.

Recently Ted took a few boys to the big city—New York—to see the bright lights and some of the name musicians. (P. S. Ted gets his musical background from a brother Jack, who was an accomplished pianist.)

Anyway the journey to the Gotham was fruitful except for a slight bit of "straightening the record" by Count Basie, the jazz man who goes back to the good old days.

Cahn shoved the kids forward and asked Basie, "Count would you autograph these programs for the boys?"

The Count replied, "Mr. Basie to you sir."

After the stiff comeback, Basie inked the papers for the youths.

We remember when Basie would be more than glad to be called Count. But that was back in the days when you could dance to in-person Basie's music for 25 cents. Times sure have changed.

Cynthia Stegner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stegner, Mount Pocono, and Scottsdale, Ariz., has been signed for a part in a new television series starring the Kingston Trio.

The program, "Young Man in a Hurry," will be on CBS television, starting in September.

Lora Baynorn, wife of banker John, unveiled a special delicacy to friends the other night. The gourmet's delight was blended around dumplings, string beans, deep fried onions and diced beef.

Actually the Stroudsburg resident received the recipe from her mother who brought the mouth-watering lend-lease from Germany.

If the U.S. is to be known for its hands-across-the-seas actions then the forward pass of Germany to Lora's mother to Lora to Stroudsburg was the best friendship pitch since the formation of Kennedy's Peace Corps.

Gene Brown About Town

Our government distributes booklets to people in foreign countries about us. We thought this explanation on racial discrimination tells a lot in a little: "One thing should be made clear at once: Racial equality is the basic policy of the Government of the United States."

"The United States is a big country with many states, each with certain independent powers, and many different customs and opinions. Fundamental changes take time. Slowly, perhaps, but surely, through legislation, education and individual goodwill, racial discrimination is being eliminated from American life."

New Speaker Offers To Spearhead Drive

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Speaker John McCormack's first major leadership test this week will spotlight his firm but "razor thin" control over the powerful House Rules Committee.

By a hairbreadth one vote margin, the new House leader expects to pry the first of the President's "must" proposals from that legislative traffic control group when it meets tomorrow.

This will be the Administration's bill creating a new Cabinet post—a Department of Urban Affairs and Housing.

Stalled in the Rules Committee since last July, this controversial measure is going to be taken up in the House and passed before February 1.

That's the highly optimistic report that Speaker McCormack made to President Kennedy at a White House meeting called to discuss strategy for setting up the new department.

Informed by Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey,

D. Minn., that the bill's proponents lacked the votes in the Senate, the President turned to the new speaker for advice.

"If you want us to take the lead in the House, Mr. President, I have no qualms about taking it up first," declared McCormack. "Our whip check shows that the vote will be close, but we can win it."

"What about the Rules Committee?" inquired the President. "Has that situation improved? Remember, we couldn't clear that hurdle last session."

"It will be a tight squeeze," replied McCormack. "But my whip check shows that I can count on eight Democratic members to help on this bill as well as on most of your other 'must' proposals."

"With fifteen members on that committee, that gives you only a margin of one," pointed out the President. "That is cutting it very close."

"It's still a majority and that's what counts," replied McCormack, a veteran of 21 years as House Majority Leader, having served under four presidents.

"I call that positive leadership," said Senator Humphrey. "Let's follow the Speaker's strategy. The bill is on the Senate calendar and after it passes the House, we will have the votes to whip it through the Senate."

Tough Battle—Under the President's proposal, a new Department of Urban Affairs and Housing would be set up, headed by a $2,500-a-year secretary with Cabinet rank.

All functions and powers of the Housing and Home Finance Agency and the Public Housing Administration would be transferred to the new Department.

It would handle all federal urban redevelopment plans and loans and all government housing programs, including the popular FHA loan guarantee program. The agency would be given sweeping authority to help state, county, town, village, or other local governments solve their slum problems.

GOP House leaders are planning to oppose the new Cabinet post on the grounds that it represents an unwarranted extension of federal powers. They see an implied threat of federal interference with municipal government.

The probability that Dr. Robert C. Weaver, a Negro, will head the new Cabinet department, is causing a number of Southern Democrats to hold back their support. Dr. Weaver is now administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. President Kennedy has authorized his congressional leaders to say that he is still undecided on whom he will appoint to head the agency.

One congressional leader who is very close to the President is saying that he expects the President to choose former Mayor Richardson Dilworth, of Philadelphia, who resigned last week to run for governor.

He contends that a Pennsylvania Democratic leader who played a major role in carrying that key state for the President in 1960 wants Dilworth out of the race and has proposed that the former Mayor be given the new Cabinet post if he withdraws.

White House aides confirm that Dilworth, if he is interested, is still in the running for the job. Political Notes—Senator Vance Hartke, D., Ind., chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, reports that State Senator Richard Richards is going to be the party's candidate in California against GOP Senator Thomas Kuchel. . . Senator Ralph Yarborough, D., Tex., is telling Senate friends that "I'm about 95 per cent decided" on entering the governorship race against former Navy Secretary John B. Connally. Vice President Lyndon Johnson is backing Connally. . . Representative James Van Zandt, is complaining that GOP bosses are opposing his governorship race in Pennsylvania.

When Men Were Great

I see that Murray Kempton, the Liberal, has discovered that Fulton Lewis, Jr., and I are not being swept away by what the President calls Extreme Rightism. But then Lewis and I do not seek to change the world but to preserve it. We find that some of our colleagues on the Right, like so many on the Left, are anxious to change everything swiftly.

That is a problem that faces all men who think about what they are doing. If we object to Lenin, as we do, it is not because Lenin wore whiskers or was born in Russia, but because we think that he has substituted materialism for morality.

Bill Buckley prefers Thomas Aquinas as a leader and I prefer Moses Maimonides—which comes to the same thing. When we go back another thousand years or so, we split off and I remain a Jew and he becomes a Catholic, but again the difference is slight if we stick to essentials.

On the other hand, Lenin has nothing to offer us and the John Birch Society and similar Extreme Rightists even less because they are neither materialists nor idealists; they are battlers against those whom they hate. I, at any rate, find hatred unnecessary. It is a waste of intellectual effort and it is sheer emotionalism.

I was looking at an album of pictures and beautiful scrolls, illumined on parchment, in Francis Robinson's office at the Metropolitan Opera House.

It was a delightful thing got together for David Belasco by the Board of Directors of the Met on the appearance of "The Girl of the Golden West." What is so stirring about the Album to me is the small fact that those who put the show on the road were all great souls and are still remembered.

There was David Belasco who dared to give the theater something better than a shrill musical; there was Puccini, idol of a new era of opera who brought together East and West in music and ideas; there was Toscanini who lived long enough to be the greatest in his field. And there was Enrico Caruso, endowed by God with perfection in artistry.

It was a period of peace and during peace, the arts bloom and it is during a period of peace that men think honestly because they are not afraid. It is fear that drives us into directions. And we do move in false directions because we not only fear the future about which we know nothing but the consequences of our mistakes about which we know a great deal now.

The difference between the era of Belasco, who could give us "The Girl of the Golden West," and today when we have failed to meet up with our responsibilities and accept our defeats as victories and our stupidities as signs of genius, is that in those days there was time to do things slowly and sanely and today we must rush because otherwise the missile will beat us to the punch.

A member of Congress bawled me out because whereas he and I agreed on fundamentals which is that we have lost so much time during the past two decades that our civilization is in peril, he felt that we could restore our strength by adhering rigidly to the concepts of our Founding Fathers, whereas I felt that we must take drastic actions.

He, I am sure, has not had the experience of a cancer. I have. The question is, does one live or die and the answer must not only be swift but it must be correct and it must be made by one man—the doctor who has to cut the cancer out.

There are no alternatives and the very method employed may be the killing factor. But one either dies or goes on living and no one can guarantee that the cure will not kill.

I remember when I lay in a hospital bed decisionless. All power was concentrated in this strange person whom I had to trust. I had no knowledge, no experience, no wisdom. I either believed that what he did was right or I took my chances and accepted the consequences.

A nation is like that at a moment when its mistakes mount up and a decision must be made and must have finality. The cure can kill, but it can also save.

Monroe Countians Living Well Within Incomes

(Special to the Record)

NEW YORK—Residents of Monroe County are living well within their incomes. They are spending much less than they are earning.

Some of the surplus is being used by them to reduce their installment debt. The remainder, or a considerable part of it, is going into savings.

The evidence is seen in the rise in bank deposits and in the gap between family income and family expenditures.

The findings arise from a study of consumer debt in the United States, made by economist Sidney Weintraub, based on data compiled by the Department of Commerce, the Federal Reserve System and others.

State Alumni Aides Seek Coordination

HARRISBURG — Elected representatives of the fourteen Pennsylvania State Colleges alumni associations, meeting here as a Council for cooperation and coordination of activities, unanimously commended Governor David L. Lawrence "for his deep interest and foresight concerning our public institutions of higher learning."

The Council members said in their resolution of commendation that the Governor's recommendation to the current Legislature for increased appropriations amounting to 50 dollars per student, or a raise of approximately $3 million more from the State, is "sorely needed to help meet increased costs at these public-owned colleges."

"Since these State Colleges are owned and maintained by the public, they do not depend upon tuition fees, but must rely upon funds appropriated by the Legislature," and Council President Leon E. Lunn, of the Mansfield State College Alumni Association, said the Governor's recommendation of an increased appropriation for the State Colleges means a comparison of 15 percent for Penn State and Pitt Universities, and a 74 percent raise for Temple.

"While students in our State Colleges, formerly known as normal schools, then State Teachers Colleges, do not pay tuition fees, they are credited with spending from 45 to 55 percent of monies realized on respective campuses. This is an important factor in local economy," said President Lunn.

Council members also pointed out that several surveys conducted in recent years indicate the Pennsylvania State-owned Colleges "are far ahead of similar institutions in other states, and in fact, many of the private colleges in this Commonwealth in the arts and sciences curricula."

Meekes furnishes special weather reports to the Weather Bureau Office, Albany, New York.

Higher Than Usual

For families in most income levels, it appears, the rate of saving was higher than usual in the past year. Those with net, after-tax earnings of $3,000 were at the lowest end of the savings scale. They put aside less than 2.5 percent of that amount, on average, in the year.

Families with $6,000 net saved about 6.5 percent. The rate rose rapidly as incomes advanced to the higher levels.

How much have Monroe County families been saving?

On the basis of their average disposable income of $6,735 per household, as reported in the latest annual survey, at the rate of 7.6 percent. They put an estimated $510 per household into savings in the year. Implied is that the local rate, for each income group, is similar to what it is in the rest of the country.

It compares favorably with the $468 per household saved in the United States.

Taking into account all families in Monroe County, the grand total of savings locally in the course of the year came to some $6,303,000.

This money, together with what was previously accumulated, represents a huge reservoir of pent-up buying power.

What caused people to become so savings-conscious? The answer is that saving was not their intention. All they were doing was holding back on big-ticket spending. Because of the economic uncertainties, they were refraining from any buying spree.

SP/4 Roy Set For 'Great Bear'

ARMY Specialist Four Gunther W. Roy, 21, son of Mrs. Edith Roy, Oaklyn Park Maple Lane, Cresco, is scheduled to participate with other personnel from the 9th Infantry in Exercise Great Bear, a joint U.S.-Canadian winter maneuver in Alaska, Feb. 12-21.

The exercise will test cold weather military doctrine and the ability of the two allied armies to work together as a fighting team. Exercise Great Bear will be conducted in the vicinity of Tanacross and Eielson Air Force Base, one of the most rugged areas over which an Alaskan maneuver has ever been held.

Principle terrain features in the 3,200 square-mile maneuver area are the heavily forested lowlands of the Tanana river valley and the mountains, which range as high as 4,000 feet, converging on both sides of the valley.

Specialist Roy, a rifleman in the Infantry's company C at Fort Wainwright, Alaska, entered the Army in April 1959 and arrived in Alaska last September.

Before entering the Army, Roy was employed by Super Welding Service, New York, N.Y.

Bank Expansion Is Anticipated

NEW YORK (AP) — S. Clark Beise, president of the Bank of America, told stockholders at a San Francisco meeting he expects expansion of earning assets to offset higher interest rates by year's end.

He predicted time plan and real estate loans will rise measurably. He said the bank, the nation's largest, opened 32 branches during 1961 for a total of 753.

Fire Destroys Lodge Building

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP)—Fire wrecked the Knights of Columbus Lodge building east of Middletown yesterday. Occupants estimated the damage at $20,000.

No injuries were reported in the blaze discovered by a passing motorist. Fire companies from four nearby communities and Olmsted Air Force Base battled the flames.

Mt. Pocono Soldier Ends Drill

ARMY PVT. Earl J. Vince, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose J. Vince, Sterling Rd., Mount Pocono, has completed a five-week aircraft maintenance course at The Aviation School, Fort Rucker, Ala.

Vince received instruction in the servicing and maintenance of Army fixed and rotary wing aircraft and in the operation of Army airfields. He is now a qualified aircraft maintenance crewman.

The 18-year-old soldier entered the Army last September and received basic combat training at Fort Dix, N. J.

He was graduated from Coolbaugh Township High School, Tobyhanna, in 1961, and was employed by the A and P Food store before entering the Army.

400 Non-Unionists Cause Problem

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Yale and Towne Company says the 400 men it hired to replace strikers "are causing permanent employment."

Some 1,200 members of Lodge 1717, International Association of Machinists, have been on strike for five months.

The company agreed last week to stop hiring replacements and the union called off mass picketing for a two-week cooling off period arranged by Mayor Richardson Dilworth.

Retention of the 400 newly hired employees raises a question about 400 jobs at the plant where fork lift trucks are manufactured.

About 400 jobs were eliminated in a reorganization.

Commenting on the reorganization, Samuel Luterott, Lodge 1717 president, said: "We don't like it but it's one of the facts of life." He said the union bitterly opposes retention of the replacements.

The company said that since the new men were hired production has increased to about 40 percent of pre-strike levels.

Two Children Die In Fire

BLANDBURG, Pa. (AP)—Fire whipped through a home in this Cambria County community yesterday, killing a boy and his baby sister. Their father was able to rescue three other children.

The dead were Ivan Ray Glass, 6, and Linda, 11 months.

Their father, Ivan, helped three children on the first floor to get out, but was unable to reach Ivan and Linda on the second floor.

Flames prevented Glass from using an inside stairway. He tried to use a ladder from the outside, but it was too short.

Police said the fire was set off by an oil heater explosion. The house was destroyed.

Bangor Lad Seeks To Aid Mine Search

BANGOR — Francis Utsch, 21, a student at Pennsylvania State University was refused permission to skidvise in a Clearfield mine where two boys are presumed to be lost.

His mother, Mrs. William Utsch, said Francis is a quiet, adventuresome boy whose activities "keep me on the edge of my seat."

Utsch volunteered to search in the Clearfield County mine but permission was refused by county and state officials on the basis that the mine was unsafe. This would have been his first rescue attempt as a skidvise.

He is a junior in Penn State majoring in chemical engineering.

During the summer months he skiddives in the Atlantic Ocean and Delaware River. In addition he is a hunter and fisherman, when in season.

He has a sister, Winnie, 15; and two brothers, Glenn, 9, and Douglas, 2, all at home.

ANSWER: YOU'D BE BETTER OFF WITH THE DAILY NEWSPAPER. That is, if you are an advertiser. For example, a typical hour drama costs $256,223 a year to run on three stations in Michigan. This would buy a schedule of 26,844 lines a year in all 55 Michigan dailies with a total circulation of 2,390,000. That's 3690 ads the same size as the one you're reading right now! No wonder advertisers invest more money in the daily newspaper than in radio, television, magazines and outdoor combined!

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

If you are one of those people who say with me: "I hate routine," take warning. What we really mean to say is that we hate routines imposed on us from outside, but we do cherish our own routine.

In the mad daily scramble of my life, it would be difficult for anybody else to recognize a routine: every day is different and each week is different and things never happen at the same hour twice in succession.

But it's a routine, nevertheless, as I discover only too well when something happens to upset it: like visits to the hospital or an extra-long Community Chest meeting. Ordinarily, the pattern of my days is like a crazy quilt but it does hang together.

Yesterday, it seemed to come all apart in rags and tatters and even getting a fouled-up typewriter ribbon was developing into a major crisis, until I stopped jittering long enough to consider that with everybody else engaged in our murder story probably nobody will read anything else in the paper anyway.

Which is rather a shame, since there are some mighty important things going on, including the crises in the Community Chest, about which you might be asking yourself some pertinent questions.

And there are things on the calendar you might enjoy knowing about and invitations you might want to accept and people are still falling in love, having babies and coming down with the flu: in which state they don't care about anything, even murder.

Open House For Kesters Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Kester of 104 Ridgeway St., East Stroudsburg will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with an open house held at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Kester of 111 Ridgeway St., East Stroudsburg.

The open house will be held Saturday, Jan. 27, from 2 to 10 p.m. and all of their friends are invited. No individual invitations have been sent out since the invitation is to all of their friends in the community.

Troop Party Being Planned By Brownies

Newfoundland — Twenty-four brownies of Troop 252 were registered for the first time with the new Stroudsburg Girl Scout Council, just prior to the troop's fourth birthday anniversary.

They were Debbie Banks, Carol Butler, Molly Burke, Mary and Margaret Campbell, Diana Colan, Anita Croft, Linda Gilpin, Cindy Haldaman, Brenda Keiter, Trudy Krieger, Linda Kritschgau, Patsy Loomis, Ann Marro, Joanne Nevin, Susan Newcomer, Candace Price, Barbara Simons, Maria Stevens, Margaret Tobey, Carol Weiland, Patty Woltjen, Jane Young and Carol Zane.

This week, Mrs. Emil Wohlfart and Mrs. Arthur Jones led the discussion of the troop's birthday party planned for January 29 at Southern Wayne Joint School.

In charge of games will be Carol Weiland and Peggy Tobey, with Debbie Banks and Cindy Haldaman preparing for "Pin and Tail on the Donkey". Brownies who volunteered cakes for the party are Candace Price, Brenda Keiter, Peggy Tobey and Mary and Margaret Campbell, and candles for the cake will be provided by Debbie Banks, Jane Young, Joanne Nevin and Barbara Simons.

Those who are responsible for providing the punch are Carol Butler, Cindy Haldaman, Carol Weiland, Trudy Krieger, Susan Newcomer, Diana Colan and Patty Woltjen. The paper plate committee includes Linda Kritschgau and Barbara Simons, and cups, Joanne Nevin and Linda Gilpin. Maria Stevens will bring paper napkins.

Ice cream for the party will be purchased by the troop from the treasury. It was decided.

Mrs. Wohlfart also announced a new troop committee which will serve for 1962, including Josephine Woltjen, chairman; Marilyn Banks, Jane Colan, Joan Nevin and Ethel Akers.

The coming cookie sale was discussed. Mrs. Colan is chairman, and cookies have been ordered, with the sale scheduled for February 3 to 23.

Dry those veal chops thoroughly with paper toweling when they are to be browned without breading.

Myrna Fish Is Bride Of Robert Rice

Miss Myrna Ruth Fish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Fish of East Stroudsburg RD 1, was married on Saturday, December 23, to Robert Rice, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Rice of Wind Gap, RD 1.

The ceremony was held in the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, Roseto, and was performed by Stephen Bortlik, brother-in-law of the bride.

Mr. Fish gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of bouquet taffeta over tissue faille. A crown of pearls and crystals held her double-tiered silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet with a white orchid.

Mrs. Rita Bortlik, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was dressed in a turquoise velvet and chiffon gown. Her headpiece was a turquoise Dior bow, and she carried a cascading bouquet of purple orchid and chrysanthemums.

Charles Rice of Port Murray, N. J., was best man. Ushes were Philip Rubino of Bath and Robert Drake of Portland.

A reception for 200 was held at Mountain Manor, Marshalls Creek. The brides table featured a five-tier wedding cake baked by the bride's Mother.

PTA Seeks Books For Library

Mount Pocono — Donations of books for the Coolbaugh Elementary Center library are being sought by the Parent Teachers Assn. At the January meeting, Mrs. John Planchock requested the books be given to Samuel Lee, principal.

Announcement was made of a Bitty Basketball game on Jan. 22 at the Tobyhanna Twp. Elementary Center with players from the fourth, fifth and sixth grades to play. A game will be held at Coolbaugh Twp. Center the following week.

A color film, "Our Obligations" showing the dangers of fire resulting from unsafe buildings and lack of knowledge in preventing and controlling fires was shown by Robert Fair-service who secured it from the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

Mrs. Smith's second grade won the attendance award. Second grade mothers served refreshments.

Candlelight Supper For Barrett GOP

Barrett — The Barrett Council of Republican Women held a covered dish supper in the Barrett YMCA. Mrs. Viola Nauman, president welcomed members and guests to the January meeting.

The tables formed a U shape centered around the fire place. Informal discussion took place around the tables by candlelight.

Mrs. Lydia Christiansen explained the pink card system which had been successfully used in the last election.

John R. Nauman, committee-man, spoke on the good will and religions of the peoples of the world. He said that in general, unity means strength. Understanding between people can only come when mutual trust exists. America must show the world that we can live together peacefully before extending aid to suppressed nations.

Clarence H. Carr explained the workings of the executive branch of politics in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Florence Hasenfus and William Caruthers, office holders for the first time, spoke of their respective offices. Mrs. Hasenfus is author and Mr. Caruthers, township supervisor.

Due to road conditions, the February meeting will take place in the afternoon. It will convene at 1 p. m. Wednesday, Feb. 7 in the Barrett YMCA and adjourn in time for the mothers to return home before the children get in from school.

Miss Hostetter Gives Graduate Organ Recital

Miss Bernina M. Hostetter presented her graduate organ recital at Crouse Auditorium, Syracuse University, at 8:30 p. m., Friday, January 12. Miss Hostetter is a graduate of Houghton College, where she majored in organ under Dr. Charles H. Finney.

Her organ work at Syracuse University has been with Will O. Headlee. The recital was given in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree, master of music.

Miss Hostetter is the daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. B. H. Hostetter, East Stroudsburg, who were in attendance for the recital. She is a graduate of the East Stroudsburg High School, where she was active in the band, and chorus.

At the present, she is organist and director of music at South Presbyterian Church, Syracuse.

The program included the Handel Concerto IV in F major, the Bach Fugue in E flat major, the Neuf Preludes of Milhaud, and the Resurrection from the Dupre Symphonie-Passion.

Following the recital, a reception was held in honor of Miss Hostetter at South Presbyterian Church.

Marriage Announced

Greentown: Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Akers announce the marriage of their daughter, Carole, of Washington, D. C., to John Sivulich, of Tacoma Park, Maryland, at Arlington, Virginia on December 29.

Mrs. Sivulich is a 1955 graduate of Greene-Dreher High School, Newfoundland, and has been employed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation at Washington for the past seven years.

The couple will make their home at Tacoma Park.

Altar, Rosary Society Begins New Activities

Brooksideville — Rose Talpas, president of the Altar and Rosary Society of Our Lady Queen of Peace Church, Brooksideville, presided at the first meeting of the new year.

Helen Bildeau reported on work during the holidays and represented more help with the charity program. Helen Chizmadia, Marge Kelleman and Mary Little offered to send articles and Toni Schultz, Marge Mondrick and Rose Talpas offered to bake to assure a successful program for the Easter season.

Feast Days of the month were outlined by Marie Schultz who urged members to pray and meditate on the real meaning of the days of the Holy Family, the Holy Name, the Epiphany, and the Octave of the Unity of the Chair.

The men of the parish will begin to build book shelves for the new parish library and the first books were donated by Charlotte Kozlowski and Esther Beckman.

The society voted to repeat the type of program given in November on the National Council of Catholic Women in February. Rev. Robert Galligan reviewed the outstanding accomplishments of the parish spiritually and materially, and also offered books for the library. Movies were shown by the Holy Name Society and refreshments were served.

Ford Wins Crosby Open In Playoff

Beats Joe Campbell In 1st Playoff Hole

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Veteran Doug Ford beat ex-collegiate champion Joe Campbell on the first hole of their sudden-death playoff Monday and won the $50,000 Bing Crosby Golf Tournament.

Each had finished with 72-hole scores of 286. Ford shot a par four on the playoff hole while Campbell, who led all the way until one hole before the regulation finish, needed a six-foot putt.

Ford, 33, needed a neat sand trap shot on the playoff hole to win the $5,300 top award. His second shot hit a grassy embankment alongside the hole, bounced off a woman spectator's leg and into the trap. He wedged out to 4½ feet and calmly sank the putt.

Just Trying

"I was just trying to stay up close all day," Ford commented. He had gone into Monday's final round over the frigid Pebble Beach Course two strokes behind Campbell at 212 and shot a 74. Campbell carded a 76.

Campbell collected $3,400 for his second place. Following Ford and Campbell at the finish were Phil Rodgers at 74-288, Ken Venturi 76-290 and Dave Ragan 73-290. Originally scheduled to end Sunday, the tournament was postponed one day because of snow and also was an hour late getting started Monday.

Campbell first had to withstand Monday the challenge of young Phil Rodgers, who moved within one stroke of the leader but fell off to a 74 and a 288 total.

Campbell, 26, of Pendleton, Ind., won the National Collegiate Championship while at Purdue in 1955 and captured his first pro tournament title last year.

Ford, from Vernon Hill, N.Y., has ranked among the top 10 money winners annually since 1951. He is a former Masters and PGA titlist.

Plays Steadily

Monday in the chill weather, he played steadily while Campbell could not hold to the par-breaking pace that had him the leader from the opening round.

A short delay was needed before the two could set out on their playoff since PGA tournament supervisor Joe Black ruled all pros must finish their 72 holes before the playoff could begin. A few remained on the course but were not in position to catch Ford or Campbell.

The pro-amateur team title went to Bob McCallister of Yorba Linda, Calif., and his amateur partner Albie Pearson, the little out-day and a tournament total of 255. They carded a best-ball 70. The pro on the winning team collects a $3,000 award.

Lock Haven, Bloomsburg Stay In Lead

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Lock Haven and Bloomsburg continue to lead their respective sections in the Pennsylvania State Colleges Basketball Conference.

Lock Haven, the only conference team unbeaten in league play, has a 30-point lead over Edinboro in the western section. Bloomsburg still tops Mansfield in the eastern section but the race tightened last week after Mansfield avenged an earlier defeat to Bloomsburg.

High Scorer

Ed Williams of Cheyney continues to set the scoring pace with 148 points. Ron Lauchner of Kutztown, has the best average score with 26.3 points per contest against Williams 24.6.

The top five are:

Poc. Archers Hold Meeting Tonight

THE FIRST regular monthly meeting of the Pocono Archery Association will be held tonight at 7:30. The meeting will be held in the Towne Room of the Town Tavern.

In the absence of newly elected president, Richard Mann of Stroudsburg, Doug Henry of Stroudsburg, newly elected vice president will preside at the reorganization meeting.

Other officers elected were: Joan Mann of Stroudsburg, recording secretary; Charles Sluter and Harry Shepps, both of East Stroudsburg will serve as club trustees. Kenneth Stine of East Stroudsburg is club treasurer. Paul Daley, East Stroudsburg, was club president last year.

Also elected were: Paul Ackerman, Chairman of the Refreshment Committee, George Miller, Co-Chairman; Paul Daley and Chet Dymond, Grounds Chairmen; Conference Representatives, Paul Daley, Doug Henry and Gene Hippler.

An important discussion will be held and a vote taken on the discontinuing of application forms for new memberships.

Last Year's Winner

Izaak Walton took first place honors in last year's standings in the Inter-County Conference. Pocono Archery Association was second with Bowmanstown third.

Bringing up the rear was Slatington, West-Penn and Blue Ridge, in that order.

Fisherman's Paradise To Remain Open

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Fish Commission agreed Monday to operate the famed "fisherman's Paradise in Bellefonte on a 'fish for fun' basis.

The commission, faced with the possibility of closing the paradise because of economic difficulties, adopted the program after hearing a request from a Centre County delegation, which appeared to protest any closing of the paradise.

W. J. Moerschbacher, the president of the county board of commissioners, the delegation spokesman, told the commission Centre County faced the loss of its "number one tourist attraction" if the paradise were closed.

"Fisherman's Paradise, besides being a place to fish, is also an industry," he added.

The commission had adjourned its meeting to hear the delegation present its plea. When Moerschbacher reached the "fish-for-fun" recommendation, executive director Albert M. Day told him that this was being considered as an alternative to closing the stream.

The new plan will require fishermen to return their catch to the paradise water. Previously, they were allowed to keep their catch, but were limited in the number they could take.

The commission expects to close the women's stream section of the paradise for inclusion into the operation of the Lower Spring Creek Hatchery.

The remainder of the area would be open to fishing for fun. The paradise would open at the beginning of the regular trout season and remain open throughout the remainder of the year.

The new program removes any limitation on the number of times an angler may fish the paradise, and fishing will be allowed seven days a week instead of the current five.

Fishermen still will have to use artificial lures and no wading will be allowed.

Yankees Favored To Repeat; Maris Wins Hickok Award

BOSTON (AP)—Like President Kennedy, the American League enters the second year of a "new frontiers" program with the New York Yankees favored to repeat as champions.

Joe Cronin, president of the junior major league circuit, Monday announced the 1962 schedule which shows Detroit at Washington April 9.

The AL hopes President Kennedy can attend this traditional opener in the nation's capital.

Unlike the White House promise of a balanced budget, the American League can make no such statement about a balanced race. The awesome Yankee power, backed by improved pitching as Cincinnati discovered in the World Series, makes New York the runaway preseason choice.

After a year's shakedown under the new 10-team alignment, the expansion pioneers have learned a lesson and are tightening up the slate while watching with interest the National League's addition of two franchises.

The league will have 300 night games, including double-headers this year, 14 more than in 1961. And the double-header total reaches 82, an increase of 18 from a year ago. Baltimore succeeds Kansas City as the most-conscious of "under lights" play with 59 slated.

However, Yankee Roger Maris' record 61 home run spree in 1961, though made possible by the expanded 162-game schedule, overshadowed the arrival of New Los Angeles and Washington clubs and the transfer of another to Minneapolis-St. Paul. No individual on the sporting scene will be as closely watched as Maris this year.

Ridan May Be Hard To Defeat Now

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—With the $31,150 Hibiscus Stake behind him, there may be no stopping Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan now. Ridan sprinted to an easy triumph in the Hibiscus at Hialeah Park Saturday and became a solid favorite for the big 3-year-old classics to come.

Making his first start since last September, the strapping boy ran the six furlongs in 1:09 1-5, breaking the Hibiscus record of 1:09 3-5 set by the late Ballyache in 1960. Fractional times were :21 3-5 and :44 2-5 over a fast track.

Ridan whipped Rainy Lake by a length and a half. The Ethel Haffa Stable's Mighty Fennec was third and Walnut Hill Farm's Su Ka Wa finished fourth.

The real test for Ridan will come when he runs into Crimson King Farm's Crimson Satan and is asked to go a mile and an eighth, probably in the Everglades Stake Feb. 21.

The Hibiscus victory was worth $20,247.50 and pushed the colt's winnings to $304,297.50.

Pirates Sign Keystone Boy

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced Monday the signing of two right-handed pitchers to 1962 contracts. The Pirates said Bruce Kunkle, 20, of Hokendauqua, Pa., and John Lamabe, 25, of Farmingdale, N.Y., became the 16th and 17th Pirate to sign.

Card, Cavalier Tilt Heads Court Action Tonight

EAST Stroudsburg can move in to first place in the Pocono-Slate Belt basketball league tonight with a victory over Pocono Mountain.

However, if the Cardinals win, it will be almost impossible for anyone to catch the Swiftwater team.

The Cardinal-Cavalier clash at East Stroudsburg, heads tonight's scholastic basketball card.

In other games, Stroud Union launches a week of road games at Emmaus, Bangor is at Phillipsburg and Pen Argyl at Coplay.

In girls' basketball, Stroud Union is at Emmaus and Pen Argyl hosts Nazareth.

Three Have Off

Delaware Valley, Pleasant Valley and Southern Wayne have the evening off.

East Stroudsburg and Pocono both have something in common as they go into tonight's battle — both blew 17-point leads in losing their last outings.

Pocono lost to East Stroudsburg at Swiftwater last Tuesday 51-48 in overtime after leading in the first half by 17 and East Stroudsburg also had a 17 point first half lead against Pen Argyl Friday only to lose 64-57.

If East Stroudsburg wins tonight, it will have a 193 rating, good enough for first. The Cavaliers are presently in third place with a 165 rating, two points in back of Stroud Union.

Pocono holds down first place with a 217 mark and if it wins it will jump to 225 with three games left. Two of the games are against winless Pleasant Valley and the other is against Stroud Union.

Rating Would Fall

However, should Pocono lose tonight, its rating would be only 175.

Pen Argyl actually has the best rating, 283, winning all three of its local games, but the Green Knights do not play enough area teams to qualify for the championship.

Stroud Union is on the bottom of the Lehigh Valley League after losing all four of its league starts.

The Mountaineers have averaged 48.2 points a game, while giving up an average of 64 a game.

Emmaus is tied for sixth place in the league with Whitehall. Both have 1-4 records. Emmaus has allowed 62.4 points a game but has scored an average of 56.1 a contest.

McAdoo Star Sparks Navy 5

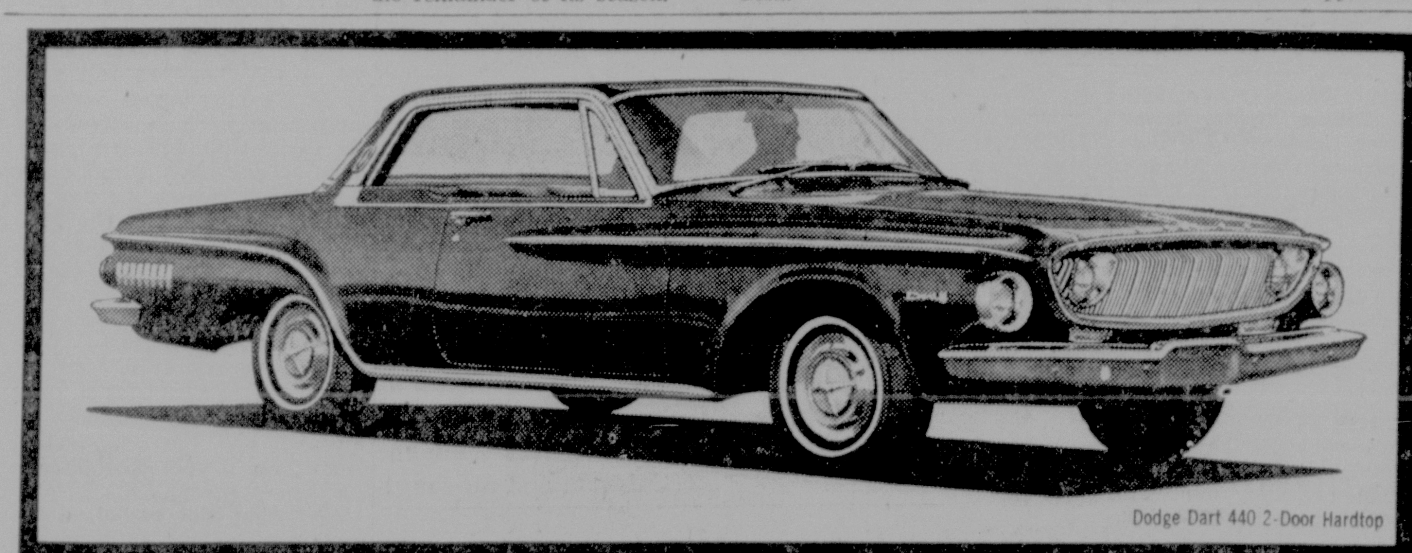

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Now that big Mike Miga is finding the range, Navy's basketball team is on the move again.

Miga, a 6-6 senior from McAdoo, Pa., has connected for 59 points in his last three games to lead Navy to victories over Penn State, Georgetown and Temple.

In 10 previous contests he had scored only 66 as the middies compiled a mediocre 5-5 record after winning their first two games.

Miga was named Monday to the Eastern College Athletic Association's weekly All-East team.

"He has really done a job for us in the last three or four ball games," coach Ben Carnevale said. He called Miga the "big key" to how well Navy will do in the remainder of its season.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 23, 1962
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Work chores may be hard to start, and I know you will, but we can never have satisfying results or returns without some taxing effort—the blitter with the sweet, to get more done.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Following principles, rules from due authority, but learn the ways or what you do. Then you can make improvements in your life. We all have some; hold temper in check.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Putting off is not normally one of your faults, but today, and anyone can fall prey not at all guard. Remember those things that caused past errors, misjudgment.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Guesswork, tendency to "let it go at that" prevalent. Know the pitfalls, and want to recognize areas where change or improvement can aid. Take them on with confidence.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Inclination to "let it go at that" prevalent. Know the pitfalls, and want to recognize areas where change or improvement can aid. Take them on with confidence.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Friskiness, pranks are about; but, distinguish between sensible and being "penny wise and a pound foolish," or not recognizing real opportunity. Relax to concentrate properly.

Preparations For Orbiting Are Priceless

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. draws a salary in the range of $10,000 a year.

But the world's richest man couldn't buy the global medical insurance plan arranged solely for Glenn.

It's a galaxy of talent and equipment never before mobilized on such a gigantic scale for one individual, the astronaut scheduled to voyage around the world next Wednesday.

Lt. Shirley Sneath, Air Force nurse, took care, for example, of washing, sterilizing and packaging each of 15,397 surgical instruments. These are included in 7,206 sterile medical kits distributed at strategic locations.

Sparking new little hospitals wait on two Atlantic islands, with facilities rivaling a Mayo Clinic or Walter Reed Hospital.

A flotilla of 21 ships steams at sea, each staffed with a surgeon, anesthesiologist and medical technician.

Stand Ready
Twenty top medical specialists of the Air Force, Navy and Army will be poised here and in the Azores, ready to rush anywhere to Glenn's side. They are part of a total team of 167 physicians, nurses, technicians and other experts.

From aspirin to X-ray machines, medical supplies valued at $250,000 are all placed now in assigned positions.

And as Glenn wheels through the vacuum of space, other specialists at tracking stations girdling the globe will make almost constant check on Glenn's pulse, temperature, blood pressure, and electrical readings from his heart, and the safety of the climate inside the capsule.

By plan, Glenn will splash down in the Atlantic after three orbital trips, be checked by the medical team aboard the pickup ship, and be flown to the hospital either at tiny Grand Turk or Grand Bahama Island, southeast of the spaceport, for examination and rest and telling of his thrilling story.

Astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Virgil I. Grissom were backed by similar medical planning in their short space hops.

But the medical mobilization for Glenn is far more extensive.

For he could land at any of nine different areas of the broad Atlantic after one, two or three orbits. And there's a small chance he could descend in the Indian Ocean, or jungles in Africa.

"This has been a gigantic cooperative effort, and an example of our interest in the individual," says Lt. Col. Stanley C. White, directing the medical support for the flight under the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"We've enlisted local medical support in almost every country Glenn will be flying over. If he needs blood, we even know who and where the donors are along the track," Dr. White said.

Weather Outlook

Extended forecasts for Jan. 23-27 Eastern Pennsylvania, southern New York and New Jersey—Temperatures are expected to average near normal. Colder Tuesday in the north and colder in all sections Saturday. Precipitation may total one-half inch or more melted in extreme western portions and less than half an inch elsewhere, occurring as rain in the north early Tuesday, more general rain or snow Wednesday and again on Friday.

Middle Atlantic States—Temperatures will average near normal. Mild Tuesday, colder Wednesday, warmer Thursday or Friday, colder Saturday. Precipitation Tuesday and again Thursday or Friday may average one-half inch.

Paper Production

NEW YORK (AP)—Paperboard production last week totaled 341,777 tons against 305,418 tons a year earlier, the National Paperboard Association said.

Viewing paintings in Wyckoff's 25th annual art show are Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Fortier, Stroudsburg, RD 4. Over 150 paintings, by both amateur and professional artists, are on display. The show continues through this Saturday. Mr. Fortier is also exhibiting his work in the local show. He is noted for his landscapes, portraiture and commercial art work. His home-studio is located at Hamilton Square.

Members of the Tri-state Professional Artists Association of New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania, last Friday presented to Ernest H. Wyckoff a citation "in recognition of his major contribution to the spread of interest in the Fine Arts". The presentation was made on the 25th anniversary of the annual Wyckoff Art Show by Allan Eldredge, president, as a surprise feature of the Wyckoff Shopper radio program, originating in the Artists Supplies store where the current show continues through Saturday.

Always, store executives recall, the show has been a terrific attraction, and never has there been a year when the judges' decisions were not the subject of controversy. Perhaps the greatest furor occurred in 1959 when Rod MacLeod, Daily Record photographer, sought to present a "new angle" in his newspaper picture. MacLeod, as a joke, had them study the canvases through magnifying glasses. As a matter of fact, the decisions had been made prior to the picture-taking, but the newspaper was besieged by irate citizens proclaiming that judges didn't use magnifying glasses, and that the whole thing was a fiasco.

Other years, a conservative public has screamed "ouch" when the ribbons and prizes went to avant garde painters. But when conditions were reversed, it was they who shouted justly that the store was steeped in conservatism and the panel was rigged. Leonard Randolph, then a featured writer of The Daily Record, summed it up neatly one year by writing, "Next to amateur painting, disagreeing with the judges in an art show is probably one of the most widely enjoyed artistic ad-vacations in the country today." However, in earlier years, when the store augmented its professional judges with balloting by the public, results were equally debatable. There was a tendency for school teachers or others in public life, with a wide circle of friends or relatives, to win the "popular prize".

Nonetheless, the 25 years of art shows are termed by store officials "an unqualified success". Many artists have gained recognition far and wide as a result; have taken prizes in many shows elsewhere, and have progressed—with justification—from the amateur to the professional class. And everyone observing this growth from the sidelines has had a wonderful time voicing an opinion either pro or con!

—Madalyn Maloney,
"The Wyckoff Shopper"

The Daily Investor

Very Good Example

By William A. Doyle

Q. I have been told that the "equity per share" of a common stock is a good indication of that stock's value. As I understand it, if a stock's market price is more than two and a half times its equity per share, the market price is too high.

Recently, I bought some common stock of Curtis Companies, manufacturers of millwork and other wood products, at $9.50 a share. I did not "buy blind." I am in the building materials business and am familiar with this company and its products. This stock has an equity per share of $20.88. The relationship between market price and equity per share seems almost too good to be true.

A. You have come up with a very good example of a very misunderstood financial subject. The dollars and cents "equity per share" you talk about is more often referred to as "book value."

I have tried to make it clear here that book value seldom has any relation to market value of stock. The major exceptions to this general rule of thumb are the stocks of investment companies—mutual funds, etc. For the stocks of investment companies, the "equity per share" is a direct relationship to the price of the stocks.

But, for most other companies, book value is simply an accounting term. It is determined from a company's records, by adding all assets, then subtracting all liabilities and the liquidating value of any preferred stock.

The sum arrived at is then divided by the number of shares of common stock outstanding. The result is the book value per share.

The Curtis Companies' latest published balance sheet (for Dec. 31, 1960) shows book value of $20.88 for each share of its common stock. But a year earlier the book value was $26.79 a share.

The company operated at a loss in 1960 for the fourth consecutive year. No dividend has been paid on the stock since 1957.

You should be able to see that book value doesn't mean much, if a company isn't making money. It is earning power (the ability to make profits) that makes a company's stock valuable. Forget about judging a company by book value alone.

Fortunately for you, there's a bright cloud on your investment horizon. When Curtis Companies releases its report for 1961, it is expected to show that the firm came out of the red and operated at a profit last year.

Q. Last November I sold some stock I had owned for a number of years. I recently received a dividend check on that stock. I know the dividend was payable to stockholders of record Dec. 22. So I am not entitled to that dividend.

I sent the check back to the company. They sent it back and said that my name still appeared on their record books as a stockholder.

Next, I sent the check to the bank which acts as transfer agent for the stock. The transfer agent sent it back to me and stated the same thing the company said. What do I do now? I'm trying to be honest about this.

A. Good for you. Send the check to the broker through whom you sold the stock. The check, of course, belongs to the person who bought the stock you sold. The stock simply wasn't transferred out of your name, as it should have been. The broker will be making a claim on you for the amount of that check—sooner or later—so that the rightful owner of the stock will get the dividend.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

THE National Board of Governors of the American Institute of Designers announced the appointment of Mr. Ralph Stampone A.I.D. as an active member in the Eastern Pennsylvania Chapter with headquarters in Philadelphia. Stampone, a Navy veteran, is a graduate of Bangor High School and of the J. Franklin School of Professional Arts, New York City. He has been affiliated with decorative sources both in New York and Pennsylvania and now owns and conducts his own Studio of Interior Design at One South Tenth Street in Easton. Stampone is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Stampone of 125 Garibaldi Avenue, Roseto.

Dear Abby

Better Than Nothing!

Dear Abby: I like a boy who is tall, dark and handsome. But he doesn't even know I'm alive. I am 14 and he is 17. He has a brother my age who is short, has freckles and wears glasses, and he likes me a lot. Both these boys are very nice but I sure would like to get the older one. Do you have any ideas?

FUSSY

Dear Fussy: A bird—even a freckled one with glasses—in the hand is better than one in the bush.

Dear Abby: I don't agree with you that a hairdresser's "tips" are her bread and butter. Generally speaking, a hairdresser receives a salary, plus a commission. When an employer expects the public to pay his help, he is putting that much more into his own pocket. It used to be that a customer got a calendar for Christmas from the dairy. Now the milkman expects a present! Good night!

MADISON

Dear Abby: The people I have reference to read your column. Both are professionals in the same line of work.

Rare Case Of Cooperation

BERLIN (AP)—In a rare case of cooperation, West and East German authorities were working together to try to end an outbreak of thefts on the East German railway system in West Berlin.

So far West German police, working with an East German railway official, have arrested one junk dealer on suspicion of receiving stolen goods.

East Germany by agreement runs the elevated train system in West Berlin.

Portland

Brownie Troop 833 met on Thursday afternoon in the Portland School Gymnasium. They played a Brownie game, made Wishbone Pins. Flag Bearers were Patsy Ribble, Donna Fontanella. Color guards were Jean Ann Ambruck, Phyllis Reagle. They closed the meeting with the wishing circle. Troop leaders are Mrs. Frances Fontanella, and Mrs. Jean Luetgen.

The man is a devoted husband and father and is respected in town. The woman is younger, married and attractive, and there has been some talk about her. This woman falls all over this man in public, calling him "honey" and "darling." She also stands very close to him and manages to touch him all the time. She tries to give the impression that there is something between them. The man is too naive to realize what she is trying to do.

It would be too bad to have this man's home broken up through scandal. I am sure he isn't aware that this woman is hurting him by her actions. Who should tell this innocent man that people are noticing and talking?

A FRIEND

Dear Friend: A man would have to be extremely naive not to be aware of a woman "falling all over him" in the manner you describe. I would say the man is either cooperating or you are exasperating. In any case, let the "innocent" man look out for himself.

Tax Help Available To Farmers

FARMERS in this area can get some valuable tax information free of cost. Harold Watkins, Acting District Director of Internal Revenue, Scranton District, advised today that a "Farmer's Tax Guide" could be obtained from agricultural agents or from the nearest Internal Revenue office.

This guide explains most of the income tax rules that apply to farmers. It should be of assistance, he said, to farmers when they prepare their 1961 Federal income tax return. The booklet is written in plain language and contains numerous examples to show how the rules work in actual situations.

A check list of farm income and expenses appears on page 18. A filled-in income tax form, with explanations, begins on page 4. Farmers can run into particular tax problems.

6,000 Students Riot In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—About 6,000 students clashed with security police on the Tehran University campus yesterday in a melee of flying rocks, clubs and bayonets.

Police said more than 180 persons, including 80 policemen, were injured, eight seriously. They arrested about 200 students.

Authorities said the students planned a demonstration to protest dismissal of three students, then were stirred to violence by elements opposed to Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's land reform program. A government spokesman reported some of those arrested were not students.

Student spokesmen said the demonstration was called to support demands of those enrolled in the university's teachers college for free government scholarships.
